BY THE SENIOR CLASS OF
JUNIATA COLLEGE

VOL. 2

Together we have shared the spirit of good will and fellow-ship. As the time draws near for us to separate, we strive to portray the life which we have so thoroughly enjoyed
We realize our inability to picture fully the atmosphere of Juniata. Yet if through these pages we bring vivid memories of by-gone days to the students of the past, instil into those of the present a larger appreciation of their splendid opportunities, and inspire those of the future with a deeper sense of the fundamental value of the spirit which pervades College Hill, we shall be amply repaid and give all honor to our Alma Mater.

CHARLES CALVERT ELLIS, A.M., PH.D.

DEDICATED

To

Dr. Charles Calvert Ellis. whose profound scholarship and inspiring personality have ever been our guiding influence

MRS. MARY S. GEIGER

IN MEMORIAM

February 2, 1828—September 7, 1916

At the time of her death Mrs. Geiger was a trustee of the Mount Vernon Street Old Folks Home, Philadelphia, a trustee of the First Church and of the Geiger Memorial Church of the Brethren, Philadelphia, and a trustee of Juniata Collège. These facts indicate her active interest in the larger and more corporate affairs of life. But she was chiefly interested in the welfare of the individual. She aided societies and organizations that she might thereby aid individuals. By the death of her husband, Mrs. Geiger was left with a substantial yearly income. This she used to help wherever there was need. She was an angel of mercy in her city. Her gifts of help went generously throughout our land and across the sea. Many worthy institutions were helped by her benefactions. Juniata was well remembered. Besides other gifts she endowed a chair in the College.

We miss her visits among us. She always came with encouragement and good cheer for all. She enjoyed the company of the young and often said "Mingling with the young helps one keep young." Her heart kept young—full of brightness and hope. Her whole life was beautiful. It was beautiful in her giving but it was more beautiful in her being. Every duty and obligation that came to her was taken up by her as a sacred trust and received the most careful attention. No one could be more loyal to her friends and to her church and to her God than she. She loved her Saviour most devotedly and all her goodness was for his sake. May God bless the memory we have of our departed sister who has gone to her reward.

The Legend of Alfarata

Long, long ago, before the steady crash of the white man's axe had despoiled the virgin forests, lived Chief Black Cloud, a warrior famed among all tribes for his wonderful strength and courage. Above his wigwam towered massive trees, in the depths of the forest lay his hunting ground, while before his lodge rolled the blue waters of the Juniata. His people held their chief in greatest admiration, but they worshipped his daughter, the lovely Alfarata.

A maiden of eighteen summers, tall and slender, with the grace of a wild animal, her hair and eyes were black as the night, and her cheeks like the rosy dawn. A true child of nature, Alfarata talked to the trees and flowers, and listened while they softly whispered to her; she knew and loved the beasts of the forest; she recognized each star as silently they one by one appeared in the dusky sky and were mirrored on the calm, still breast of her loved Juniata.

Winter, with its keen, frosty air, beautiful snow and glittering sunshine, was always a source of wonder to her. But even better did she love the summer, when the soft zephyrs sent the leaves and grasses fluttering and dancing, when the birds sang so sweetly and the flowers lavishly scattered their perfume on the air. Every evening as the sun slowly sank behind the hills, leaving a path of gold on the shining river, Alfarata would push her canoe into the water and drift lazily with the current. She would float until the first star appeared, then paddle home, to await the coming of her father.

One day, wrapped in her thoughts and the beauty around her, she suddenly found herself far from home. Unafraid, she turned her canoe, and about to paddle swiftly up stream, noticed the figure of a man appear against the background of the forest. She stopped, her paddle poised in mid-air, and watched the stranger. For some moments, each gazed at the other, then the stranger beckoned. Slowly she approached the bank. As she neared, she noticed that the man was young, tall and handsome, but with a paler face than any she had ever seen. He smiled, and gave her his hand in greeting. Together they talked, and Alfarata learned that the stranger, so captivating and splendid, was a young trapper who had wandered far up the Juniata, for pure love of adventure. Before she departed, the man made her promise to return the next afternoon. Eager, yet reluctant, Alfarata promised.

So the days passed. Each afternoon the two met, and meeting, learned to love each other deeply. Summer passed on speeding foot; the flaming red and orange of the forest warned the lovers of the approach of Autumn, when the young trapper must return.

For many days, the man had urged Alfarata to accompany him, to become his wife and live among his people. She hesitated, for she knew her father's wishes. Often had he said to her,

"Daughter, take for a husband one of your own tribe."

Love, however, won the day, and near the end of Autumn, Alfarata consented to return with her lover. They carefully made their plans. Early one morning, before the sun had appeared to waken Black Cloud and his warriors, Alfarata glided noiselessly down the river in her canoe, to meet her lover at the bend of the stream. All day they traveled swiftly, and as darkness slowly enveloped them, they stopped, and built a campfire along the shore.

Suddenly, a hideous war-cry pierced the air. Chief Black Cloud had missed his daughter, followed her, and now had discovered her hiding place. Alfarata rushed to the arms of her lover; he held her closely, fearing nothing, but trying to protect his bride.

Uncontrollable anger seized the maiden's father. An arrow whistled through the air. Swiftly as it sped, the aid of the Goddess of Love came more swiftly. At once the campfire was deserted, but in the sky appeared two brilliant stars, the spirits of Alfarata and her lover.

Ode to Juniata

Hail Juniata!

School that has bound
Our hearts to thine, with ties profound.
Homage we pay thee as we leave,
To thy fond memory e'er we'll cleave,
Thy praises everywhere we'll sound,
Juniata, Hail!

Hail Alma Mater!

Seniors are we,
Launching on life's stormy sea;
Pray pilot us that we may gain
The dreamed success we would attain,
Be with us, we are e'er with thee,
Alma Mater, Hail!

JOHN CALHOUN BAKER

Everett, Pa.

"Slats," "Weener"

Freshman Wedding (1); Eagles Mere Delegate (1); Track Team (1, 2, 3); V. Pres. Lyceum (2); Editor "Items and Personals" "Echo" (2); Varsity B. B. (2, 3, 4); Class Pres. (1, 2); Champion, Tennis Doubles (3); Pres. Deutscher Verein (3); Y. M. C. A. Social Com. (2); Editor-in-chief "Echo" (3, 4); Relay Team (3); Junior Play (3); Third prize, Christmas Story Contest (4); Editor-in-chief, Alfarata.

Aim: "To cast a shadow."

"If you want anything done, ask a busy man." John's versatility is well known; he is a regular "Jack of all trades." Here, however, the proverb ends; the Echo and Alfarata are lasting proofs of his energy and capability. "Pep" is the chief constituent in the make-up of this popular lad. Whatever he undertakes, he carries through with a dash which is truly invigorating. In Philosophy, he is Prof. Dubbel's main stay and inspiration. As a center on the Varsity Basket Ball team, his height is a useful attribute. When Baker is in a position to receive the ball, his agonizing wail of "K—i—d" sends it spinning in his direction. When you want to see a streak of lightning, just watch Weener do the hurdles at a track meet. With the ladies, his manner is most persuasive; he is particularly strong for the Ohio variety. As John goes out to seek more worlds to conquer, we know success will be his constant companion.

HERMAN PRICE BREININGER

Lewistown, Pa.

"Breine"

Freshman Wedding (1); Social Com. Y. M. C. A. (2); Junior Play (3); Varsity Base Ball (3, 4); Second Team Basket Ball (3, 4); V. Pres. Lyceum (3); Sec. and Treas. S. S. (3); Censor, Lyceum (3); Pres. Y. M. C. A. (4); Class Pres. (3, 4); Delegate Nat. I. P. A. Convention (4); Bus. Mgr. Alfarata.

Aim: Girls—first, last and always.

Here's our President, our man of business and practical knowledge. Herman feels that he knows about all there is to be known concerning methods of modern warfare, since he spent part of a summer making shells. He even lectures on the mechanism of the shrapnel shell, and keeps one on exhibition in his window in Students' Hall. Tho he loves nothing better than a chance to tease, he is abounding in good nature and can take as well as give. A man of roving disposition, Breine agrees with that ancient philosopher, Heracleitus, who said, "In change one finds rest." He was at one time overheard to remark, "I have sought to understand myself." What did he mean? Who knows? Herman has been a faithful, competent President of the Senior class, and we know that he will make his mark in the world.

Alice Marguerite Brumbaugh
Ridgely, Md.
"Al"

Concert Company (1); Freshman Wedding (1); Ladies' Quartet (1, 2, 3, 4); Sec. Deutscher Verein (2); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (1, 2, 3, 4); Sec. Miss. and Temp. Society (2); Chor. Lyceum (2, 3); Chor. Y. W. C. A. (2, 3); Sec. Miss. Band (3); Junior Play (3); Tennis Tournament (3); Chor. S. S. (3, 4); Glee Club (4); Ass't Lit. Ed. Alfarata (4).

Aim: "To lengthen to the last a sunny mood."

A pair of sparkling brown eyes, a jolly laugh and a beautiful voice—this is our Merry Maid from Maryland. Literally bubbling over with fun, wherever Al is, there is sure to be something doing. She talks unceasingly of Maryland, but while very loyal to her home state, she seems to be quite fond of the hills of Pennsylvania. Al often declares that the best view can be secured from Round Top, and frequently travels there to commune with Nature. Her lovely, charming voice is known far and near. While traveling with the Concert Company, Al made a hit wherever she appeared. On College Hill, she is indispensable. Society, Quartet and Glee Club all claim her, and to each she gives herself wholeheartedly. Any one struggling with German invariably comes to Al for assistance; she is a veritable German "shark." Always ready to lend a hand, she excels in all she undertakes. Al's many friends know that success is bound to attend her wherever she goes.

Floy Souder Crouthamel
Souderton, Pa.

Class Play (3); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (3, 4); V. Pres. Y. W. C. A. (4); Sec. Class (4); Glee Club (4); Delegate to Eagles Mere (3).

Aim: "To serve another's need right heartily."

This methodical mademoiselle who likes to cut French so well, joined us in her Junior year, and has proved an indispensable member. What, O what, would we do without her sound advice in class meeting? Floy is always strong for the good "eats"; her greatest problem is how to keep tempting odors from wafting round the corner into Mrs. Shontz's room. In the beautiful afternoons of Spring and Fall, it is of no use to seek Floy on College Hill; look for her among the hills collecting biological trophies, with which her room is constantly adorned. An ardent lover of nature, she has a decided mania for hikes. Floy's greatest desire is to become a doctor; she is specializing in Biology with the idea of pursuing her chosen work later. She is a splendid Y. W. C. A. worker, and a girl of strong convictions. She attended the Eagles Mere Convention and returned with an enthusiasm and working spirit which has been bubbling over ever since. Floy is an all-round favorite, because of her happy combination of attributes. So here's joy to you, Floy, in whatever you may undertake!

EDGAR GRAYBILL DIEHM
Lititz, Pa.
"Diehmsch"

Freshman Wedding (1); First prize, Bailey Oratorical Contest (1); Second prize, State Peace Oratorical Contest (1); Pres. Deutscher Verein (2); Second prize, State Peace Oratorical Contest (2); Local I. P. A. prize (2); Third place, State I. P. A. Oratorical Contest (2); Captain of Debating Team (3, 4); Junior Play (3); First prize, State Peace Oratorical Contest (3); Second prize, Inter-state Peace Oratorical Contest (3); President Local I. P. A. (4); Chairman Dev. Com. Y. M. C. A. (4); Historian, Alfarata.

Aim:

"A loaf of bread
A jug of wine
And thou

Beside me, singing in the wilderness,
Oh, wilderness were paradise enow."

Behold, a phenomenon of Nature—a combination of red hair and good temper! Red is our distinguished orator and skilled debater; he has won untold laurels both for himself and his class. He is Dutch, and admits it; Lancaster County is his pride. As a peddler of Lititz pretzels, Ed is unequalled. No class is complete without a minister—Diehm is our ecclesiastical representative. He occasionally preaches in the Stone Church, upon which occasion the class of '17 turns out "en masse" to hear him. Ed has carried off almost enough oratorical prizes to set up housekeeping. In fact, judging from the number of letters he daily sends and receives, we conclude that in the near future another cozy home for two will be established. Good luck, Red, to you and the lady of your choice.

WALTER FRANKLIN FISHER
Lewistown, Pa.
"Fish"

Freshman Wedding (1); V. Pres. Lyceum (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3, 4); Second Prize Cup, Track (3); Cap. of Second B. B. team (3); Junior Play (3); Asst. Instr. Chemistry and Physics (4); Faculty B. B. Team (4); Physical Director (4).

Aim: To be a great scientist.

This young giant secured his fame thru his excellency in all forms of athletics. He excels in track, especially shot-put and discus. Wonderful are the stunts the boys are performing as a result of the splendid training of their physical director! Fish got in wrong the day he had his "boys" photographed—they tramped up the campus in a way that was "terrible, terrible." Don't worry, Fish, that was but a part of the ups and downs of life! Here is a prodigy in Chemistry. When an assistant was needed for that department, Fisher was at once called into service. He is Prof. Keihner's "handy man" in the collecting of bugs, beetles, and other carnivorous animals. As a side diversion, he is particularly interested in graceful water-fowls. Fish sits up and takes notice at the mention of Philosophy. He has frequently startled us with some original ideas which he has discovered in "Phil." This budding scientist is pursuing his work diligently; for the future we see in him the Chief Chemist of the Age!

BERTHA ELMIRA HARLEY
Royersford, Pa.
"Myra"

Social Service Com. Y. W. C. A. (3, 4); Freshman Wedding (1); Deutscher Verein (2, 3); Sec. Miss. and Temp. Society (2); Mission Band (3, 4); Cor. Sec. Lyceum (3); Glee Club (4).

Aim: To make as little fuss as possible.

This quiet, unassuming maid comes to us from the East; tho she makes little "fuss," she is a person of action. She graduated from the N. E. Course here, and liked the looks of the Freshmen of '13 so well that she decided to join their ranks. Myra is a very methodical young lady and we always know that whatever she undertakes she will do to the best of her ability. She made a very coy and charming bride in the Freshman wedding, and we consider the person lucky who will some day claim this quiet maid. Myra is active in the religious activities of the College, especially in missions. Her failing is her fondness for her "downy couch," which she loves to seek both early and late. With the combination of her domestic taste and practical knowledge, we send her out into the "unfeeling world" with bright hopes for her future.

GRETTA KATHRYN LANG
Williamsburg, Pa.

Treas. Y. W. C. A. (2); Eagles Mere Delegate (2); Mission Band (2, 3, 4); Student Volunteer (2, 3, 4); Deutscher Verein (3); Junior Play (3); Chairman Dev. Com. Y. W. C. A. (4); Critic, Lyceum (4); Student Volunteer Convention (4); Glee Club (4); Cartoonist, Alfarata.

Aim: To convert the heathen.

Gretta, the serious, is a young lady who does not believe in cutting class. She comes to us with experience along many lines, not least among them being the ability to guide "Young America" in the straight and narrow path. Systematic Theology is her hobby; her one weakness is "eats." Before Gretta goes to Missionary Conventions, she consults the all-wise "Ouija" as to whom she may meet. And—she meets him! Who knows what may be the result? Her chief delight is to go down town and hunt bargains. She loves to talk about her blue-eyed baby sister, who must be a modern wonder! As our artist, Gretta carries her pad and pencil into every class, and spends the period in cartooning the Profs. She has always been envied by the other girls because of her ability to so well express her thoughts in public. When Gretta leaves for foreign fields, may good fortune and happiness attend her.

FRANK MAGILL
McAlevy's Fort, Pa.
"Mr. Gill," "Maggie"

Freshman Wedding (1); Pres. of Orchestra (2, 3); Captain Gym League B. B. (3, 4); Treas. Lyceum (3); Class Treas. (3, 4); Champion, Tennis Doubles (4); Adv. Mgr. Alfarata.

Aim: Not to exceed the speed limit.

Maggie hails from that dot on the map known as McAlevy's Fort. He came to college so quietly that no one knew he was here until he began to beat the drum. Frank is a man of few words, but full of ideas. He is represented in the athletic world as a popular captain of the Gym League B. B., and a striking figure on the tennis court. In the beginning of his college career, Frank literally followed this bit of advice, "So, boys keep away from the girls, I say, and give them lots of room." But alas, he is degenerating. When he fell, he fell hard and now every night finds him wending his way down town. According to Democritus, "of practical wisdom there are three fruits:—to deliberate well, to speak to the point, to do what is right." In a nutshell, this is Mr. Gill. We don't know what he will do in the world, but we rest assured that it will be done well.

HARRY FRED MANBECK
McVeytown, Pa.
"Pot," "Fred"

Basket Ball (1, 2, 3, 4); Glee Club (1); Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Sergeant at Arms, Lyceum (2); Pres. I. P. A. (2); Cor. Sec. Lyceum (2); Echo Staff "Athletics" (2, 3); Tennis Tournament (4); Champion Tennis Doubles (3); Junior Play (3); Athletic Editor Alfarata (4); V. Pres. Deutscher Verein (4); Penn Relay team (3).

Aim: "To joke as much as I can, in all the ways I can, with all the people I can, as long as ever I can."

Behold the clown of the class, whose infectious good humor can cure the worst case of blues! As an athlete, Fred's reputation is secure. His field goals in basket ball are spectacular, his tennis is hot and fast, while his pole vaulting and dashes set the grand stand in an uproar. Nor is his ability limited to athletics. During the recent political campaign, Manbeck's stump speeches won his audience. In fact, (when he wants to) Fred can talk more and say less than any other man. He is our old veteran; when Prof. O. R. wishes to bring up any particular incident of by-gone campus life, he tells his story and then adds, "Harry, you remember." Because the class of '17 looked good to Fred (and he knows a good thing when he sees it), that class is now happy to claim him as a member. He loves the ladies, but does not specialize (on College Hill). Harry's jolly good nature and ability will win him many friends and much success wherever he goes.

JAMES CARMAN NEWCOMER
Uniontown, Pa.
"Newc"

Glee Club (1); Freshman Wedding (1); Male Quartet (1, 2, 3, 4); Reserve Basket Ball (1); Varsity Basket Ball (2, 3, 4); V. Pres. Class (2); V. Pres. Choral Society (2); Concert Company (2); Cheer Leader (2); Deutscher Verein (2, 3); Pres. Choral Society (3); Cor. Sec. Lyceum (3); Chorister, Lyceum (3); Chor. Y. M. C. A. (3); Chairman Soc. Com. Y. M. C. A. (4); Song Leader (3); Junior Play (3); Pres. Lyceum (4); Art Editor, Alfarata.

Aim: Never to be "Ruthless."

Newc (who loves to be called James) is an important member of the Juniata musical world. His tenor voice is often heard echoing thru the corridors of Students'; a member of the Metropolitan Music Club, his range extends from rag-time to opera. Carman's one hobby is girls; he is frequently found around Ladies' Hall in the vicinity of the parlor. This many-sided genius stars in both tennis and basket ball, while in social circles he is equally prominent; between times, he goes to college. His ability to imitate is ludicrous; his jokes are always to the point. Newc loves to tease his friends, and invariably bangs them on the head as a small token of the esteem in which he holds them. Fortune favored him with the gift of gab, and he appreciates having others agree with his ideas. Full of fun and good sense, Newc is sure to ascend the ladder of fame.

ALBERT LUFT REBER
Chicago, Ill.
"Josh the Younger"

Deutscher Verein (3); Prize for Hallowe'en Costume (4); Ass't. Bus. Mgr. Alfarata; V. Pres. Class (4); Pres. Lyceum (4).

Aim: Never to make a mistake.

This jolly dutchman formerly hailed from Lancaster County, and a right "handy" fellow he is. Albert came to J. C. in 1916 and was initiated at once into his rôle of member of the Junior Class, where he has been a faithful worker. When we want a man with a head for business methods, we seek Reber. He early established his reputation by his ability as the College ad. printer, in which he excels. He has, however, a weakness—we hesitate to mention it—he does enjoy so thoroughly a good hour of reading with —, or toasting marshmallows on the hillside! Parlor ??? At the Hallowe'en Mask, Albert was such a splendid peddler that we are led to believe that he has had some experience in that line. Who knows? When we can't find him on the campus, we go to the surrounding hills, and usually find him with his kodak snapping some rare bit of scenery. His aptness with the typewriter has been of invaluable service to his class. He has a keen sense of humor, and his chief diversion is "raising Cain"! It is rare to find a man in whom are so well blended ability and dependability—but here he is—and for him we predict the top round of the ladder of success in the business life.

CALVIN J. ROSE
Windber, Pa.
"Sunshine"

Y. M. C. A.; Lyceum; Vice Pres. Volunteer Band; Boys' Club; Student Volunteer; Glee Club (4).

Aim: To be heard.

While at E-town, this young man heard of the fame of the class of '17, and started post-haste to join it. We cannot class "Sunshine" as a woman hater, for, from the start, he has been bent on making a hit with the fair sex. Always jolly and smiling, we hear him long before we see him. He expects to become a missionary; one smile, and any heathen will succumb. He likes to speak in public; when he gives a report, we know his tongue will be busy until the end of the period. As Sunshine enters the class room, he cheerfully greets the Profs.; it matters little whether or not his greetings be returned. Here's a chap who sticks to his own convictions thru thick and thin. Perseverance wins success, Sunshine; here's to you!

RUTH WINUREETA TIFFANY
Huntingdon, Pa.

Sec. Class (2); Second prize, Bailey Oratorical Contest (3); First prize, Christmas Story Contest (4); Deutscher Verein (2, 3); Poet, Alfarata; First Prize, Bailey Oratorical Contest (4).

Aim: Too numerous to mention.

The baby of the class, Ruth's sunny disposition and cheery smile make her a universal favorite. In Biology class, her chief diversion is to start an argument against Evolution, for though she did descend from ancestors who swing from tree to tree, she won't admit it. In fact, when Ruth gets an idea in her head, she usually keeps it. It is almost a case of

"If she will, she will,
You may depend on't;
But if she won't, she won't,
So there's an end on't."

Ruth's talents extend in various directions; her poetry is of especial merit, while her sketches and cartoons are exceedingly clever. A shining star in English, she captured first prize in the Christmas Story Contest. Ruth has acquired the habit of taking all the English she can. Why? Ah, that's the question! As a great artist, a missionary to South America, or a country school teacher, Ruth will win laurels in whatever she undertakes.

RUTH WILLIAMS
Royersford, Pa.
"Rooster"

Freshman Wedding (1); Delegate Eagles Mere Convention (1, 2); Sec. Lyceum (2); Chairman Dev. Com. Y. W. C. A. (2); Censor, Lyceum (2); Junior Play (3); Editor, College Events "Echo" (2, 3, 4); Critic, Lyceum (3); Deutscher Verein (2, 3); Sec. Class (3); Pres. Y. W. C. A. (3, 4); Literary Editor, Alfarrata; Glee Club (4); Editor-in-chief "Echo" (4).

Aim: More time to sleep.

Here is a maid without whom our class would indeed fare badly. Versatile, jolly and ready with willing hand and rolled-up sleeves (literally and figuratively) she is always found busy. Ruth has one failing—she likes to sleep too well. Her reports show many an absence mark as the result of tardiness to 7:55 class. She is quite apt with her pen, and derives much enjoyment from drawing caricatures in class. Then, too, she is not deficient in ability along the line of poetry, and many a charming verse has evolved as the fruit of her poetical genius. As President of our Y. W. C. A., she has extended the work of the Association to a remarkable degree. In Ruth are united both capability and sociability, and this happy combination makes her a universal favorite. Her specialties are Botany, French and an extremely sweet tooth for candy, which must be satisfied quite frequently. Upon one occasion she even worked until eleven o'clock with some stubborn fudge. Her Botany note-book is the pride of Prof. Keihner, because of the accuracy and art displayed in her drawings. She wishes to study interior decorating, after leaving Juniata, and we prophesy for her a future full of achievement and success.

So here's to Ruth, the gem of our class, She's a versatile maid, and a right jolly lass.

The Life of the Class of '17 in Four Acts

Dramatis Personae

The Class of 1917
The Class of 1916
The Class of 1915

The Class of 1914
President Brumbaugh
A College Professor

Editor of the Juniata Echo

Scene: At Juniata College and vicinity.

ACT I—SCENE 1

(Registration Day at Juniata College, Sept. 18, 1913)

Class of '16 to Class of '15—Did you see that bunch of Freshmen in the Faculty room?

Class of '15—Yes, there are twenty-nine of them.

SCENE 2

Class of '16 to Class of '14—That Freshman crowd is getting too assuming, they need "attention."

Class '14—Don't worry about them, they'll soon settle down.

SCENE 3

Class '16 to Class '15—What is going on in the "gym" tonight?

Class '15—The Freshmen are giving a social. Let's go over and witness the affair.

Class '16 after the entertainment—The Freshmen certainly know how to entertain. That mock wedding was almost like the real thing. At least the class has some originality. The refreshments after the wedding were delicious.

SCENE 4

Class '16 to Freshmen—Will you picnic with us next week?

Freshmen—No, thank you, we prefer to picnic alone.

SCENE 5

(Class '17 holds picnic at Echo Glen.)

Class '17 to Class '14 (after they returned to College)—We had a great day. In the midst of our enjoyment a war-whoop was heard, followed by "Sophs" rushing in upon us. Suddenly the eats and two "Sophs" were in the pond. Then the "Sophs" withdrew. In spite of their interruption, we had a delightful time.

ACT II—SCENE 1

Class '17—We are "Sophs" now, let us organize. (John Baker is elected the first president.)

SCENE 2

Editor of Juniata Echo—Will the Class of '17 publish the May number of the "Echo"?

("Sophs" accept and "Echo" is published.)

Class '16—The May number of the "Echo" shows that the Sophs have more original ideas.

ACT III—SCENE 1

Class '16 to President Brumbaugh—Who is the new Editor of the "Echo"?

President Brumbaugh—We gave the Editorship to a member of the Junior Class. (Juniors storm.)

SCENE 2

Class '17—Since we are Juniors, let's have a class play. (The play, "The Private Secretary," was rendered by the class, May 20, 1916. It was a "hit" from beginning to end.)

Student Body—The Junior Class play was the first real thing of the school year.

President Brumbaugh—I enjoyed the play as much as any farce I ever saw.

SCENE 3

Senior Class—We want to publish a year book next year. Let us choose our staff now. (Editorial Staff is chosen.)

ACT IV—SCENE 1

Class '17—Finally we have entered upon the life at Juniata. Half of the year is already spent. We are still taking a very vital part in the various activities of the College life. Three of our number are members of Varsity Basket Ball team. One is captain of the Debating Team. As a class, we are known as having athletes, editors, poets, orators, musicians, scholars and authors. We believe in our class and the future of its members.

College Professor—

To the class of Nineteen Seventeen a Salutation royal!

You've achieved big things and noble; you leave a record proud and fair,

To the Ladies, capable, sprightly, queenly,—real American girls,

To the Men, scholars and gentlemen all,

Yours a future illustrious!

Home Economics

The Home Economics department at Juniata is practically a new one. Last year a class composed of three members was graduated. At present it is only a two year course but it is hoped that it will soon be reorganized into a regular four year course.

We seniors are proud of our department on the third floor of the new Science building. The cooking and sewing laboratories are fully equipped. In the kitchen each girl has her own desk, utensils and individual stove, besides the use of a large supply table in the centre of the room and a corner cupboard which contains the extra supply of utensils. In case we wish to cook in large quantities, we also have the use of a large stove. Our dining room is very artistically and tastefully furnished. Besides the general kitchen and dining-room, we have a small home nursing room finished in blue and white, and a sewing room which contains the drafting tables.

Socially, our record is worth note. One of the first things we did was to give a faculty tea. (You know it always pays to entertain the faculty.) Next we entertained the county superintendents and high school principals. Later in the same year we entertained the college presidents of Pennsylvania at a real banquet. Both of these proved successful. Last, but not least was the banquet which we gave to the Governor and his party. The college dining-room and tables were decorated very attractively by us girls. We planned the menu and helped in the preparation. The Governor was heard to remark, "I never saw a finer bunch of girls."

The department has already made an important place for itself in the life of the school and its work forms a valuable and attractive addition to the College curriculum.

"Now since you know our history
You'll want to know the girls,
So here's a chance, my laddies,
For you to find some pearls.

Miss Helen dignified, reserved,
Makes bright each barren corner,
A worthy president she is,
A wife she'll make for ——.

Now "Mam's" real name is Lillian,
For a man her heart still beats.
We know he'll not be hard to find,
For she's right there with eats.

"Bess" is a quiet Southern maid,
The joy of all who know her;
To heights of culinary art,
She easily will soar.

Now, "Hersh" is so particular,
That clean, she thinks she must.
We wonder if she hopes to find
An Adam in the dust.

"Cindy's" a bright and shining light,
A lady fine, no doubt;
She puts her hand to anything,
And something fine comes out.

Of course our class is not complete
Until we mention "Snitz."
If anything was not just right,
She'd have a couple fits.

Now out into the world we go
To show to all mankind
The proper way to cook and sew.
None better can you find."

ELIZABETH BOWMAN

Bridgewater, Va.

"Bess"

"She's as modest as any, and blithe as she's bonny."

Bridgewater Va. High School; Bridgewater College; Juniata College; Glee Club; Religious Meetings Com. Y. W. C. A.

Bess typifies her state of "Ole Virginny" by her rosy cheeks, large blue eyes and charming smile as she slowly saunters to class with her customary "you all goin' t' class, guhls? Tell 'er I'm comin'." We take pride in her artistic temperament and her genteel way. There's no one who has known or met her but feels the sterling quality of her character.

Bess's work as a dietitian is tripled since the diets of athletes, college students and scientific agriculturists differ so widely.

We wish you all the good fortune, Bess, that you deserve.

RUTH EMMA HERSHBERGER

Everett, Pa.

"Hersh"

"Those who know her best praise her most."

Everett High School; Class Secretary; Glee Club (2); Delegate to National I. P. A. Conference (2); Conference Committee Y. W. C. A. (2).

Hersh is the personification of neatness. As a housewife, she would be ideal. Her generous nature and pleasing personality make her loved by all who know her. Her motto has always been "others." We have all been unable to solve the mystery of why Hersh refused the bid to the Rutgers "prom."

ADA LUCILLE GUMP
Covington, Ohio
"Cindy"

"Look, she's winding up the watch of wit—soon it will strike."

Covington High School, Ohio; Glee Club; Alfarata Staff; Y. W. C. A. Conference Committee.

This little girl comes to us from the "Buckeye" state, bringing with her the typical western spirit, and is an all in all "good sport." She seems to be a quiet, dignified little maid, but nay, not so, when you know her.

Cindy afforded her class much fun one day, when she insisted a loaf of bread weighed 29.3 pounds. But thru Miss Cook's careful explanation she was made to see she meant ounces instead of pounds.

With her winning ways and industriousness, we all expect to hear of her good record in the "domestic" world.

HELEN FRANCES MILLER
Confluence, Pa.
"Hennie"

"There's a vein of mirth beneath her air of dignity."

Confluence High School; Juniata Academy; Class President; Juniata Orchestra (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. W. C. A. Conference Committee.

We were more than happily surprised when we found Hennie among our number. Her intentions were to study music, but something must have happened over vacation to turn her interest toward the higher spheres of life. Now we find her enrapt with the grave problems of Household Management.

A positive proof of her magnetic personality is the fact that her room is constantly the centre of attraction. She's a "good sport" and in for every thing that comes along.

JESSICA LILLIAN RUPERT

Huntingdon, Pa.

"Mam"

"Always ready to do a good turn."

Huntingdon High School; Juniata Business College; Class Treasurer (2).

Quiet, industrious, wholehearted and happy is our only representative of Huntingdon. Lillian is a young lady of few words and many deeds. She is always very willing to do her part when it comes to work. She will be missed but not forgotten.

VIOLA BLANCHE SNIVELY

Long Beach, Cal.

"Snitz"

"When she will, she will—you may depend upon it."

Lenark High School, Illinois; Mt. Morris College; Glee Club.

Snitz is our itinerant and we are happy to boast of her charming presence for a period long enough to graduate from our department. She is a lady of many talents, being an accomplished reader, and an able harmonizer on the ukulele. Her menus are delicious. We congratulate the man who is fortunate enough to win this lady.

The Academy

OFFICERS

HARRY A. DIVELY.....	President
RACHAEL E. MILLER.....	Secretary
WILLIAM J. YOUNG.....	Treasurer

The Academy department was established in 1901, to satisfy the needs of students preparing for College. The graduates of this department are everywhere filling prominent positions as successful teachers and business men.

The present Senior class, though small in number, is large in ability. This fact was demonstrated on Washington's birthday, 1916. On that day the decorations, entertainment and luncheon all contributed to the honor of the Juniors, and many were the "comps" which we received.

Soon our thoughts turned to Commencement, which appeared in the dim distance. Did we pull one over on the Seniors? Well I guess yes! The general decorations being arranged, we set out to execute our carefully laid plans, and soon our banner was floating in its place of honor. How insignificant that '16 pennant looked when the Junior banner was unfurled!

And now to the members of this famous class. Rachael is our versatile lass; a charming reader, she is the life of any assembly. The Muse often inspires Bill; his verses are of interest to all who read them. Royal has a special propensity for work and sleep; the instant he has a minute to spare, nod goes his head. The race is not always to the swift, so Jesse, with his slow but sure methods, is bound to make a place for himself in the world. At socials, Budd is always in demand, for his agility at the piano makes him indispensable. Since last year Mary Elizabeth, John, and Henry have joined our ranks. Jolly and full of fun, we consider them a splendid addition to our class.

Our record in the past has been good; we hope to do more in the future. We enter the world of affairs better fitted to meet its demands because of the training received at Juniata.

HARRY ALLEN DIVELY
Berlin, Pa.

Berlin High; Oriental; Civil Engineering; Pres. of Class.

Harry has a very peaceable disposition, coming, as he does, from "Berlin." He is quiet and reserved, thinking deeply and saying little. Mathematics is his hobby, while carpentering is his choice of manual labor. Harry is no admirer of the fair sex with their "endearing young charms." His choice of a pursuit in life bears evidence of his harmless disposition. He is planning to be a Civil Engineer.

BUDD STANLEY HOUCK
Lovejoy, Pa.

Wahneeta; Teaching.

Budd needs no introduction. He comes to us from Lovejoy, Indiana County. This must be "some" town considering its name, and son Budd. Since he is only a "bud," we wonder what the full-grown sunflowers are like. This budding son (or rather sun-flower) assaults the piano with fury. He is an expert on "classical" ragtime. He sometimes even ventures to sing, being a member of the College Quartette. Budd expects to specialize in mathematics. May success attend him in his chosen work.

JOHN LEROY KNEPPER

Berlin, Pa.

Berlin High; Oriental; Agriculture.

Do you hear that laugh? That's Knepper. He cultivated this clever expression of mirth on his father's farm in Somerset Co. The farm is the subject of his conversation, when it is not his best girl or his Oldsmobile. He is proficient in original monologues, just so he has an audience. As running guard on "Miller's Tugs" he has been a great success. Here he also keeps "a-talking." He has fully decided to become a scientific farmer.

MARY ELIZABETH LEVAN

Alexandria, Pa.

Alexandria High.

Mary entered our class in the senior year. She is known to some as Mary Elizabeth, to others as "Bibbie." Although she has not been with us much, since she is a day student, yet she has impressed the class very favorably. There is no such thing as being dull in her presence. She is bright, vivacious and good natured. Travelling is her avocation. She also has a warm place in her heart for all her professors.

We wish Bibbie the best of success.

RACHAEL ELIZA MILLER

Confluence, Pa.

"Liza"

Confluence High; Oriental; Expression; Sec. of Class.

Rachael is our permanent secretary. She is "Liza on the spot" when it comes to plans and suggestions. Usually the only girl at our meetings, she has much her own way. She has a particular liking for the "movies" and her brother "Sam." A senior in Expression, she is our reader. Her ambition is Chautauqua work. With her pleasing personality and winsome way, she will naturally meet with success.

ROYAL GRAZIER SHANK

Warriors' Mark, Pa.

Oriental; Teaching.

A "royal" good fellow and a "royal" student; this is Shank. When he is not in class or at meals he is sure to be in his room poring over a lesson. His watchword is "Work." Anything he undertakes, he does with a zeal that insures success. His interest in politics was shown in the local presidential campaign, in which he was an ardent Republican. His ambition is to be the head of the department of Mathematics in some college.

JESSE LEE STAYER

Woodbury, Pa.

Oriental; Teaching.

When you hear an uneven step in the hall, you know it's Jesse. There is always some motive that prompts his coming, for he never wanders leisurely about. Oh no! monthly grades are of too much moment for that.

His ambition is to have an A in every subject. When asked a question, Jesse proves a Socrates; he is sure to ask a second before answering the first. His chief characteristic is responsibility. He would rather miss a meal than a class. He is a shark in Latin and tennis, and a stationary forward of note. He never goes to a lecture without his notebook. Jesse is a lover of history. From the obsolete methods he employs in his endeavor to attract the attention of the gentler sex, we conclude he has been greatly influenced by ancient history. Jesse's great ambition is to become a teacher.

WILLIAM JAMES YOUNG

Robertsdale, Pa.

Robertsdale High; Wahneeta; Treas. of Class.

"Bill"

Here comes the "funny" man of the Class. No one will get lonesome around Bill. He asks so many questions that it almost amounts to quibbling, and is a continual torment to his instructors. He is noted for his wise and witty sayings. When you hear some one come in, close the door, then knock, you know it's Bill. He is humorous and often quotes scripture as: "Be temperate in all things." If he takes this for his maxim when he is admitted to the "bar," we feel he will then keep sober.

ERNEST ACKER BRUMBAUGH
Williamsburg, Pa.

Oriental Society; Treasurer of Boys' Club.

There is more to Ernest than the rest of us in the way of avoirdupois. He carries with him a very stern expression, but if you are entertaining enough, he will repay you with a deep mellow laugh.

Ernest, like the rest of our boys, is studious and makes good use of his time, even if Dr. Grimm does call him a "visitor" in Cæsar class.

We know that Ernest knows better, and that he will not always be a "visitor," but someday a "regular."

CLOYD KOCHER DAVIS
Petersburg, Pa.

Oriental Society.

Since Davis graduated from Petersburg High School in 1916, he completes his Normal English course in one year.

He is of a quiet studious nature. Cloyd's talents were demonstrated when he impersonated the minister in the Thanksgiving play. It is the wish of Cloyd's friends that he take the best of care of his little flock,

Always to sympathize
And never to knock.

JOYCE HAUBERT

"Bert"

Oriental Society; Class Treasurer.

Joyce came to us as a graduate of the Mifflintown High School, where she not only went thru school, but in passing managed to obtain some knowledge of the subjects.

She has been taking some special subjects since joining the Juniata Family, especially one subject "Crawford."

Here's hoping Joyce will not specialize seriously and thus hinder her promising future.

ETHEL B. HESS

"Hess"

Vineyard, Pa.

Wahneeta; Teaching; Methodist Episcopal; Glee Club.

Jolly and kind hearted, yet always ready for fun, Ethel is the pride of her class. Taking long walks for her health is her favorite diversion; her vanity is her glorious auburn hair. Hess declares that Spanish will be the coming language. She speaks fluently in this tongue, and on one occasion was even known to write an essay entitled "Nuestra Clase." At one time this same young lady had the lofty ambition to aid "Young America" along the steep and rocky path of learning. However, since the "Old Maids' Convention," she has discovered her hidden genius. The future Schumann-Heink may be Ethel Hess. Ideal Young Man, watch your step! Ethel is keeping a close look-out for you!

LILLIAN MARIE OPPEL
Mount Union, Pa.
"Billy"

Mount Union High School; Wahneeta Society; Secretary of Class.

Lillian entered our class in the Fall of 1916. She spent three years in the Tidionte High School, and finished the fourth year in the Mount Union High. She is a good student and her future looks promising. Although never neglecting her studies, she is a first class "sport" and knows the requisites of a good time, being especially fond of auto trips with congenial company.

We all wish success to our dark-eyed, curly-haired, good-humored Billy.

ROSS RHINE
Shade Valley, Pa.

Wahneeta Society; Track (3).

Ross is our friend who to all appearances is very quiet. But after knowing him personally, you are very likely to change your opinion of him.

After finishing the public school at home, he came to Juniata, where he has worked his way to the present position of senior.

Most people are accused of speaking too loudly, but Ross will never be guilty. He expects to take college work, and of his future we expect something especially bright.

WILLIAM DAVID RUMMEL
Holsopple, Pa.

Oriental Society; Class President.

William David came to us with many practical ideas which he gained while teaching. He made good use of his time at Juniata, and will go out with plenty of good theory to help his practical knowledge.

He is a most genial soul, having a smile and good word for all. His friends are many; being a good student and worker, success must surely come his way.

DAVID CRAWFORD SWIGART
McVeytown, Pa.

Wahneeta Society; Second Basket Ball (4); Track (3, 4).

David Crawford came to us from the Maple Grove public school and entered as Sophomore. Though quite a good student, he takes no little interest in the fair sex.

As a conversationalist he has no rival in the way of speed. When Crawford is not otherwise engaged, he sends a message reading thus, "Hau—bert meet me in the sitting room, Mrs. Shontz is away."

We hope Crawford will not always be so "intense."

MAY DAY

GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH SPEAKING AT COMMENCEMENT

EXPRESSION

Expression Department

This department has shown a decided growth since it was established in 1913.

Miss Ruth Hitter, graduate of Columbia College of Expression, has been the head of the department for two years. Since then, the public speaking class has been organized. Much interest has been shown, not only in the large number in the public speaking class, but in the number taking private work. The success of this department can be readily seen in the debates and oratorical contests which have been won.

The Expression work not only helps the individual to have self possession and poise when before an audience, but develops an appreciation for the best in literature, and helps the innate feeling to find expression in body and voice.

Much stress is laid upon personal development—the voice is given special attention and the whole body is trained to respond to the emotions with grace and beauty.

The history proper of our class started in the fall of 1915. We began with a large class, but gradually they dropped one by one along the way-side, until at the end of the year we numbered but four. At the opening of this year we were glad to welcome a new member from Perkiomen Seminary; now we are a quintet of girls—"our dear teacher's pride and joy."

The two most notable features about us are that we have never gone to class with our lesson unprepared, neither have we ever been known to show any levity in the class room. We have always been modest and unassuming, but cannot help feeling proud that ours is the largest class ever graduated from this department.

Now that our Senior year is almost gone, we leave it behind with regret, but ask those who follow in our footsteps to keep ever before them our motto:—"Esse quam videre."

DOROTHY LINDA BAKER

"Dot"

Everett, Pa.

College Sophomore; Lyceum; Class President.

"What her heart thinks, her tongue speaks."

"Dot," the president of our class, came to Juniata in the Fall of '15, having been graduated from Everett High. She began her career as a freshman in College, but later discovered she had ability for Expression, so she joined our ranks in the second semester of '16. By taking extra work, Dot is now one of Miss Hitter's quintet of girls.

In the early part of Dot's senior year, a taste for forestry was developed and she decided on the Oak as the most interesting specimen to be studied.

Dot thinks she will specialize in voice work, as she is keenly interested in the many kinds of breathing exercises necessary for a good speaking voice. We expect great things of Dot.

FLORENCE MAUDE BEAVER

"Beeb"

Schellsburg, Pa.

"Her charms are many, her faults are few,

Her enemies rare, her friends many and true."

First prize Carney Contest, '16; Sec. Y. W. C. A., '16 and '17; Academy, '16; Home Economics Junior; Lyceum; Alfara Staff.

"Beeb" made her debut at Juniata in the spring of 1913, and has been one of Juniata's popular ladies ever since. Last year she graduated from the Academy course, this year from the Expression and next year she expects to finish the Home Economics. If she keeps up at that rate very long, Juniata will have to add some new courses, but we believe next year's diploma is all she needs, for "Art's in love and Beeb is willing."

Maude has always been a popular reader around school, and everyone enjoys hearing her pleasant, musical voice. Her impersonation of the masculine type of old maid was the "hit" of the evening at the "Old Maids' Convention" and her great desire to become a man caused not only the downfall of Dr. Pinkerton, but the break up of the convention. Beeb is a good natured, jolly girl and we all feel that with another year in Home Economics, she will be ready to start her life work.

EDNA DOUB
Hagerstown, Md.
"Doubie"

Wahneeta.
"Spruce and trim as a lady can be,
What she would lack if she had no
Casey."

Edna, better known as "Doubie," is our only representative from Maryland, and is one of the three faithful "charter" members. She has never been known to hurry, yet always gets there on time.

Her work in Art and Music require so much work at night. Doubie is a wonder at memorizing; she can memorize page after page without any difficulty. As a reader, she is always in demand.

She has a special fondness for bodily expression, and can often be seen practicing in the hall. Her favorite musical instrument is the cornet.

RACHAEL ELIZA MILLER
Confluence, Pa.
"Liza"

Academy Senior; Oriental; Treas. Y.
W. C. A.

"A maiden fair you can't deny,
With raven hair and laughing eye."

"Liza" is one of the many Millers that Juniata has sheltered and cared for. She came to us after being graduated from Confluence High, and is one of the three "charter" members. She graduates from the Academy as well as from the Expression department.

Liza is always anxious for the lessons in bodily expression, she is so fond of the Arabesque and the Elevée. She is equally as fond of the voice work, when she can hit the wall with "mä," and "mo."

Those who hear her read are anxious to hear her again; with her winning personality she will always be able to charm her audiences.

MARGARET CLYMER STRUNK

Altoona, Pa.

"Maggie"

Oriental.

"As brimful of mischief and fun and glee,

As ever a mortal girl could be."

This little lass is the baby of our class. She attended Perkiomen Seminary one year, but hearing of the fame of Juniata decided to change, so joined our class in her senior year.

Maggie possesses exceptional ability for one so young and if she keeps on, will be a great reader. She is deeply interested in all phases of her Expression work.

There is always a seat reserved on the bleachers for "Maggie" when the Second team plays basket ball. She is one of the most active members in Oriental.

Her jolly good-natured manner has won for her many friends.

HELEN BEATRICE ADAMS
Huntingdon, Pa.

Helen is a fitting representative of the industrious workers of her neighborhood. She has considerable knowledge, yet it takes much coaxing on the part of the teachers to induce her to tell what she does know. Nevertheless, we must give her credit for knowing more than she tells. She is always merry and her hearty laugh can often be heard mingling with the others in the day students' room.

LILLIAN ESTELLE AXON
Altoona, Pa.
"Lill"

Lillian is our lone representative from Altoona, where for two years and a half she enjoyed training in the Mercy Hospital. She enrolled in the Commercial Department at the beginning of the spring term, 1915, and has made much progress in that Department. She is very popular in the day students' room. Her favorite pastime there is torturing the students with her various love songs. She further disturbs them by leaving her books, pencils and tablets over tables and chairs. When the search begins the order of the room is destroyed.

MARGARETT BRUNETTE

Huntingdon, Pa.

"Peggy"

Shorthand.

It was in Pitcairn that this lovely brunette opened her eyes and saw for the first time a world in which she was to play an important part. Margaret Brunette they called her, but we know her simply as "Peggy." Being an ambitious child, she was unable to endure the limitations of her native town, so a few years ago she moved to Huntingdon. Her knowledge of learning was so vast that the High School professors granted her a diploma of graduation in 1916 and this year Peggy came to Juniata.

Peggy is continually laughing in class. She is very fond of reading and her favorite novel is "Just David." She is a staunch supporter of the Oriental Society and a member of the Alfarata Staff.

We fear that Peggy will not be a typist long, but will work for a banker. The good wishes of the class of '17 follow her wherever she goes.

MARGARETTA G. CHILCOTE

Orbisonia, Pa.

"Chilly"

Shorthand.

Over in Orbisonia, Pa., the school children may not be able to give historical dates very accurately, but every one of them can tell you that our "victim" was born Feb. 18, 1897, and ever since that time Orbisonia has been a historic place. Here Chilly received her early education and graduated from O. H. S. in '14. Having shown a great liking for "larnin," Chilly next attended Mt. Union High, from which school she received her diploma in '16. This fall she came to join the ranks of Juniata.

Chilly has a pleasant, happy nature. She can depend on "some one else" to good advantage, and with no trouble at all on her part. Any one walking thru Second Oneida and hearing some one exclaim, "Oh my heart," knows that Chilly is somewhere in the vicinity.

She is a faithful and true member of Wahneeta and an earnest student. Judging from her work in the classroom, we predict for her a successful future.

MILDRED LAURA EYER
Warrior's Mark, Pa.
"Milly," "Happy"

Shorthand.

"Milly" was born in Tyrone, Oct. 1, 1899, but soon decided that city life was too strenuous for her, and at the age of three, we find her on a farm near Warrior's Mark. After completing her early education, she entered Juniata in the fall of '14 as a student in the Bookkeeping Department, and is now fully prepared to conduct any kind of business. In connection with her Business Course, Milly is very fond of literature. Of the Mother Goose Rhymes, "Tom, Tom the Piper's Son" is her favorite.

Milly also receives a great amount of mail and some has been "labeled" with just such sayings "Read me first," "I want to be read first," and, "Don't read me last."

It is Milly's ambition to become a famous business woman and we know that she will attain a high place in her profession.

GILBERT GRUBB
McConnellstown, Pa.
"Gibby," "Grubb"

Shorthand.

This good-natured fellow, our walking shadow, with the longest legs, the longest arms, and the most penetrating intellect, is the best that McConnellstown could produce for Juniata. He is not an original product of our beloved College, as he studied last year in the city of "Brotherly Love," but this was too far from Pitcairn and the "one fair Lady of his dreams."

Gibby is a noted penman and spends most of his time in practice but refuses, absolutely, to write any drills for the other members of the class, as he is sure that the Professor will know his work and "dock" him for it. Taking everything into consideration, "Gibby" is a good fellow, and we are sure that after this year spent within our walls he will be fully worthy to proclaim his relationship to Juniata and all her sons will be proud of him.

THELMA FISHER HALL
Huntingdon, Pa.
"Them"

"Them" greatly surprised her classmates last fall when she announced her intention to enter Juniata Business School. Nevertheless, she is quite a shorthand "shark," but typewriting is her "Jonah." Her favorite expression, "Lend me," causes quite a commotion throughout the class. In spite of her success as a business student, it is a known fact that Them is planning to train for a nurse next year. We agree with her, that as a trained nurse she will be invaluable to "the Doctor."

SUSAN LUELLA HANNAWALT
Huntingdon, Pa.
"Sue"

Susan is a very industrious young lady. After graduating from High School in 1915, she was head saleslady in one of the department stores of Huntingdon, but the call of Juniata was too strong, so at the beginning of the fall term, she enrolled in the Commercial Department. She is very, very particular about her typewriter and no one dare deny her, her especial machine. We have heard some rumors that Susan has already been offered a position in Washington, D. C. If these reports are true, we know her future position will not be that of a stenographer.

KATHRYN PALMER HART

Needmore, Pa.

"Kittens"

Shorthand.

This charming young lass claims as her birthplace, Needmore, Fulton County, Pa. She is a quiet reserved girl, but loved dearly by those who know her. Being a shy maiden, she devotes most of her time to studying. Her favorite expressions are "Well I'm mad," and "I think it is awful."

We imagine her profession will be of use to her as she says she will not marry a man who is below her ideal of what a man should be, and that she is doubtful if she can ever find one who will measure up to the standard. Perhaps _____ can persuade her to change her mind.

Soon after entering college, Kittens joined Wahneeta and has proved a very faithful member. After completing her course at Juniata, she will be an expert stenographer and her friends are sure that none but the greatest of success will crown her efforts.

MILLIE MAE MCILROY

Huntingdon, Pa.

"The temple of thought is silence," must be the motto of this quiet, unobtrusive child, for Millie was never known to do anything that could be censured by her teachers. Once, however, I believe she did startle her classmates by "springing something." Millie is a fine student, always faithful to her books, and throws out many a lifeline to her drowning classmates. "We thank you, Millie."

LETTIE B. NEFF

Warriors Mark

"Trix," "Neff"

Shorthand and Bookkeeping.

This fair lassie first opened her eyes in Warriors Mark, Pa., where she received her early education, graduating from High School in 1914. In the fall of the same year Trix entered the halls of Juniata as a student in the Academy and having completed this course, we find her enrolled this year as a student in both the Bookkeeping and Shorthand Departments.

Trix is such a talkative young lady that she even talks in her sleep, at which time it is difficult to understand all that she says. When shown anything new or told anything exciting Trix is sure to exclaim "Oh! it's good lookin" or "Oh! it's just peachy."

Wahneeta finds in her a valuable member and is pleased to claim her as one of its own. Each and every member of 1917 extends good wishes for her future success.

ALLISON ESTELLE ORBISON

Huntingdon, Pa.

"Ally"

Our jolly friend Ally is a graduate of the Huntingdon High School, 1916. She not only graduated, but carried off the highest honors of her class, and with it the Juniata Scholarship prize. Ally is a girl of exceptional beauty. With her charming personality, she has attracted many noble knights. Having conquered quite a number in this country, she is preparing for a Spanish conquest and has already made much progress along that line. She is a good Spanish student and keeps up her record in all her studies.

VIRGINIA GREGORY ORBISON

Huntingdon, Pa.

"Ginny"

"Ginny," the tall and queenly, boasts of what she will do when she "grows up." She is seldom seen except under the chaperonage of her elder sister, but some day, when she can go about alone, we shall expect great things from her. If you have your doubts as to why women should vote, just consult Ginny, she will settle them for you. She is a loyal "Bull Moose" and we do not doubt that some day she will be Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt's Social Secretary. Will you remember us then, Ginny?

RACHEL ESTHER REED

Huntingdon, Pa.

"Nubbs"

"Nubbs," that awful name! Who wished it on her? This jolly lass graduated from Huntingdon High School in 1916, and entered Juniata Business School last fall. She always has a pleasant smile, a steady temper and a helping hand for every one. Her ambition is to make a success in the West. She says the "wilder and woolier" it is the better it will suit her.

Nubbs can not help but succeed, for her good nature wins friends wherever she goes.

ALMA ROBERTS

Mount Union, Pa.

Alma arrived last fall and has ever been one of our most conscientious students. Each day she enjoys her ride to and from school on the P. R. R. Any typewriter, (just so it goes), suits this good-natured girl. She evidently believes in preparedness, for every day, "rain or shine," Alma comes equipped with overshoes. Although she has never let college life interfere with her studies, she occasionally turns her footsteps towards Third Hall, where she can enjoy a good laugh with the rest of us.

RHODA MARIE THERESA SCHOCH

Huntingdon, Pa.

"Zulie"

"Zulie" is our star girl. Her motto is "Be eternally prepared," and she lives up to it. She graduated with high honors from high school in 1915, and is keeping up her good record here. She is our champion typist and a good student in every way. Zulie is very fond of outdoor exercise, and it is not an unusual thing for her to walk to McConnellstown for a little hike and fresh air. After finishing her course at Juniata, this ambitious young lady contemplates taking a course in watch-making and engraving, at the Ezra Bowman Technical School, Lancaster, Pa. We look forward with some interest to the time when we shall see her picture among the world's famous watch makers.

ELIZABETH SHEESLEY

Lewistown, Pa.

"Shees"

Shorthand; Lyceum; Secretary to the President.

This blue-eyed lass comes to us from Lewistown. Having graduated from High School in the spring of 1915, Shees came to Juniata as a student and Secretary to the President. Her work here has been in both college and business departments. She completes the Shorthand course in June.

Shees is an energetic worker. Her general appearance is that of mixed determination, speed, and laughter. Asking questions and summoning persons to answer telephone calls is her hobby. It is not unusual to see her skipping rapidly through the halls in search of someone wanted at the office. Shees makes few remarks as to her ambitions. We also fear to venture a prophecy, for fate and fortune often take an unknown course. The entire class wishes her unlimited success.

DAISY SNOWBERGER

Williamsburg, Pa.

"Daisy"

Shorthand.

This light-haired, blue-eyed flower from Williamsburg, having completed her High School course in the spring of 1916, came to Juniata in the fall as a Business student. Since her coming here, this modest little Daisy has blossomed and has become a belle.

By all appearances, Daisy is a very studious girl. You may find her in the typewriting room morning, noon and night. She is very quiet and likes to keep her knowledge to herself; in fact she refuses to relate any of her life history and consequently little is known concerning her.

Her aim is "to win the heart of one of her employers and live happy ever after." We wish her the greatest success in the fulfillment of her aims.

HELEN ROSE SNYDER
Huntingdon, Pa.

Helen is one of the fairest of Huntingdon's fair young women. Her favorite past-time is heart smashing, and her sparkling black eyes make it easy sailing for her. She never lets work interfere with pleasure, and with her pleasant disposition we do not wonder that she is so popular.

ALICE MARGUERITE STOLER
Saxton, Pa.
"Reke"

"Reke" hails from Saxton, which is noted for its picturesque scenery and pretty girls. She graduated from High School in 1911 and from Shippensburg Normal two years later. She then sallied forth to try her wings, which resulted in three years of successful teaching in the Stonerstown School. Reke longs to go West, and with pretty, blushing cheeks, invites us to visit the Ohio School of Correction when she and Prof. "Ken" are in full charge. Her wonderful voice is the marvel of her dearest friends, but she believes in surprises, so it is only on rare occasions they have the pleasure of hearing her sing.

WILLIAM EDWARD TROUP
Richfield, Pa.
"Eddie"

Bookkeeping.

Upon gazing over the campus in the fall of 1914, in the midst of the green verdure, we were scarcely able to discern this youth as he stood fixed, as it were, to the spot, looking about him as if he had been aroused from sleep to find himself in the midst of new surroundings.

After taking a course in the Academy, this little (?) boy, from Richfield, Pa., decided that a lawyer—for that is his chosen profession and he has already filled his room with large, strange-looking books concerning this subject—should have some ideas of books and how they are kept, so he entered the Business Department this year.

When you see a biped strolling across the campus, very erect and taking "mincing" steps or hear a peculiar little laugh, you are safe in saying, "Here comes Eddie."

Each and every member of 1917 class extends their good wishes for his future success.

CHARLES W. WILLIAMS
Saxton, Pa.
"Pug," "Cy"

Shorthand.

Cy began the difficult voyage of life in the small town of Saxton. He began his systematic mental development in the Saxton public school, and after satisfying the teachers of the lower grades of his abundance of advanced knowledge, entered the High School and was graduated in the spring of '16. Cy could not decide whether to be a "Prof" or a business man, but after much contemplation and consideration, he chose the latter and in the fall of '16 registered as a student at Juniata.

Cy is quite an athlete and musician and many an evening he has serenaded the girls with his mandolin. Pug is not over socially inclined for some unknown (?) reason and to protect himself, told some of the girls that he was married.

He is a staunch supporter of Oriental and a member of the Orchestra.

In his chosen profession we extend to him the confidence and good will of all his classmates, who are positive that his name will be written on fame's ledger.

THELMA KATHLEEN WILSON
Orbisonia, Pa.
"Dice"

Shorthand.

Thelma's early education was received at Orbisonia, and after graduating from O. H. S. in '14, Dice entered Mt. Union High and here formed many friendships, especially one, which will undoubtedly prove lasting. After graduating from Mt. Union High, Dice thought her calling was that of nursing and this fall she entered Allegheny Hospital to bring about the realization of her dreams. Hardly had she landed and started work than this "demure little maid" found she could not have home and "Peg" so far away. So home she came.

Next Dice decided a business career was just the thing for her, and she entered Juniata a few weeks later. Much of the first few weeks was spent in weeping but a letter came every day and soon she became brighter and decided to remain with us. She says she finds Juniata just a "wee bit" lonesome.—We wonder why.

After graduation, Dice expects to become a stenographer but we have our doubts. Whatever she may do, she carries with her our best wishes for her success.

MARCELLA IRENE WOOLHEATER
Huntingdon, Pa.

After graduating from Huntingdon High School with the class of 1915, Marcella thought she would try her hand at nursing, so she entered the University Hospital for that purpose. However, she soon found walking the floor and rubbing sore backs did not agree with her. She entered Juniata at the beginning of the fall term and finds its daily routine of fresh air and exercise more agreeable to her delicate constitution. Quite a success in this work, she fairly "eats up" shorthand outlines and is quite speedy on the typewriter. Marcella has an inexhaustible supply of wit and good humor. Woe to the teacher when she comes into class equipped with a fresh supply of merriment.

In Memoriam

Dorothy Gaines

The Fall of 1914 found us enrolled at Juniata with twenty-seven Charter Members, and, through the kindness of fate, we are still the same in number, although time has brought some marked changes in the personnel of the class.

In our Freshman year our history was mainly one of negative achievements, an all-wise faculty having interfered with our most important plans. We established a precedent, however, by holding a Freshman Banquet and as a result the Class Banquet has become an annual event. The Freshman Social was another notable event of our first year.

As Sophomores and Juniors we have had numerous opportunities to distinguish ourselves, and many are our achievements in practically every laudable college activity. Of course we have met with some defeats, but they have benefitted us and have made us more appreciative and proud of our victories. For instance, as Sophomores we were defeated in basket ball by the Freshmen quintet, but this year the tables were turned, and as Juniors we are now victors over the "Sophs."

We have been quite prominent in athletics. From our number have come members of the varsity basket ball and baseball teams, as well as noted athletes in track. In our Freshman year the First Cup in the Fall Track Meet was awarded to a member of the Class of 1918, while many are the Junior men who wear the "J." Our own Class Cheer Leader is the official College Cheer Leader and in many contests, Juniata, through his skilled leadership, has been cheered to victory.

We also shine in debate and oratorical contests. In our Sophomore year one-half of the Varsity Debating Team, as well as the entire Second Team, was composed of members of the Class of 1918. This year we have again contributed two members to the Varsity Team.

We have active workers and officers of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., of Lyceum, and also members of the Echo Staff. The Fogelsanger Scholarship has been awarded to one of our number.

Many and varied are the individual talents of the class. We have musicians, orators and elocutionists, while the A. I. H. L., i. e.,—The Association of Intellectual High Lights, organized in our first year, still prevails.

With characteristic 1918 spirit we are attacking our work as upper classmen. It is our desire to live up to the ideals of Juniata and to bring new and great glory to the Blue and Gold through the medium of the Gold and Brown.

HISTORY

AS FRESHMEN

In our short history of less than two years, we have acquired a place in the Juniata life of which we can truly be proud. We are represented in the foremost ranks of every student organization on College Hill. As a class, we are noted for our versatility, initiative, class spirit, and loyalty.

We began our freshman year with the largest membership of any Juniata class. However, as time passed, the actual class roll was considerably lessened. The Home Economics department took its toll, while others naturally fell by the wayside as the chariot of time sped along.

The first important event of the year was the Freshman-Sophomore basket ball game. We bore away the big end of a 34-14 score. Since that time their "chestiness" has not been quite so pronounced.

One day in late spring, we betook ourselves to Leffard's Bench and Shelving Rocks for an outing. After securing an abundant, well-rounded satisfaction about our stomachs, several exploring parties (of two each) volunteered to go in search of flowers, the balm of the sick-room. As a result, we were able to make several floral contributions when we came back.

AS SOPHOMORES

We returned this year slightly fewer in numbers, but with renewed courage and determination. At the Hallowe'en party we enacted a typical German wedding as one of the stunts. It proved to be the prize winner of the evening, and excited much comment and praise from all sides. A little later, one of our members, Miss Lois Myers, charmingly entertained us at a taffy party in her home. The evening was delightfully spent, and passed all too soon.

As a class we do not believe in boasting of our accomplishments and plans. We prefer to have deeds speak for themselves. This was amply demonstrated in our fall hike to Black's Bridge. Providence and ourselves alone knew about it until after we were gone.

Before Thanksgiving, President I. Harvey Brumbaugh issued a call for contributions. The Sophomores, true to their "rep" for being different from other classes, responded with a substantial pecuniary gift to the Extension Fund.

Just one week before the Christmas vacation we held a unique and impressive farewell party in honor of Miss Virginia Burtner, who could not return after the Holidays. There are a number of reasons why we enjoyed the function so much.

This ends our brief history on College Hill. We are just getting started, and hope that the future will far eclipse the past. We are eagerly looking forward to the time when we shall be able to be of real service to our fellowmen; when we shall be able to show to the world that the Juniata College class of 1919 has the "real stuff."

CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1916, the usual "fresh" atmosphere was radiated by the class of verdant freshman. To upper classmen we seemed insignificant children, to be guarded and advised. But so thrilled were we with the idea of really being in college, that we cared nothing for the opinion of those most worthy advisors.

Many of our number have taken their places in the activities of the school. We are very proud of Mr. Statler, the only freshman who has won a place on the varsity debating team for several years. Mr. Kulp also brought honor to his class in making the second team. Years from now, you upper classmen may read of a Statler-Kulp debate as famous as that of Lincoln-Douglas. Who can tell what the result will be when such genius is displayed in the freshman year!!!!

Two of our suffragettes, Maude Beaver and Jo Ryer, represented the school in the Hughes-Wilson campaign. Later we gave our first Lyceum program. Maude Beaver and Kathryn Fahrney proved shining lights as readers, while the piano duets of Helen Herbster and Martha Heverly cannot be excelled.

Our boys have secured several coveted places in athletics. "Duke" Wright is on the first basket ball team, while Fike has a place with the "Reserves." We challenged the Juniors to a game of basket ball; which they failed to accept.—Next year's history will tell the rest of that story.

The social life of our class has not been neglected. In November we went on a class hike. Say, did "eats" ever taste better than those "weenies," buns, and pickles eaten around the fire on Shelving Rock? Later we planned a splendid sleigh ride, but our hopes were blasted. However, it was not because we were Freshmen; even the Seniors are denied such larks.

We have been "Freshies" for only a few months; we have but a short history by which to judge the future. Therefore we will not prophesy, but just watch us GROW, for to the class of 1920 that word spells—

THE STAFF

The "Echo"

True to its name is the Juniata Echo, repeating to students, faculty, alumni and others who are interested, the daily life of Juniata. Since November, 1890, when it was first published under the direction of Dr. A. B. Brumbaugh, it has month by month sent out its message and bound Juniata and Juniata friends closer together.

The Echo was preceded by two other school publications,—the first, the Golden Dawn, was simply a reproduction of the literary and religious side of the school life. The Advance followed with a more general view of all activities. Just twenty-six years ago the paper was given the name, "Echo." It was edited by the faculty and its purpose was to "represent the higher moral and religious training of our young men and women, the better qualifying them for teachers, for professions, for citizens in this great country,—our country."

Since that time the management of the Echo has been turned over to student representatives. And who should be better able to portray college life than they who make it? A college paper may be the very heart and vitality of the school. It may be teeming over with spirit and animation. It may inspire its readers to a yearning desire for something higher and better than that which they already possess and make of them broader minded men and women with the ability to work out their highest ideals and ambitions. All of these things the Juniata Echo has done, is doing and will continue to do as long as it is compiled with the sincere co-operation of all concerned.

Each and every member of the Juniata family is interested in the welfare of his fellow and there is no better source for this information than the Alumni section of the Echo. There are none to whom the Items and Personals may not bring up some memory, either mirthful or serious; and College Events are ever interesting. Athletics can never become dull when backed up by true Juniata spirit. Everyone may read and appreciate the Literary department and Editorials. No phase of college life is forgotten and there is ever the striving to reach higher, to help ourselves and others.

The Lyceum

The Lyceum is the Literary Society of the college department. A private meeting is held every Saturday night, and a public program is given every third Friday evening. The purpose of the society is to discover and develop the latent talent of the student in literature, oratory, music and expression.

But just to see what one of our meetings is like, come along with us to our private meeting over in the gym. tonight. It's freezing cold over there, but we're all young and happy and we don't notice a little thing like that.

We stand around talking until the president, Mr. Newcomer, takes his place up in front and calls the society to order. "The program is in the hands of the censor," he says, and we settle down to the serious business of enjoying the program.

Probably we start out with one of the famous duets of Miss Heverly and Miss Herbster. Dorothy Baker then gives a reading, followed by a paper on Woman Suffrage, by Mr. Good, and a pianologue by Miss Beaver. Then Galen Horner tells some of his Kentucky experiences in a discussion on tobacco growing, and Alice Brumbaugh completes the program with a vocal solo.

The President, according to the time-honored formula, then says, "The program being completed, we will turn to the business side of the meeting. We will now have the critic's report." After this, Miss Royer reads the minutes of the last meeting, and the call for "new business" follows.

At this, Mr. Diehm rises leisurely, and with a slow grin, begins to speak in his "Dutchy" brogue. "Mr. President, as we all know, it is the custom of the Lyceum to choose, each year, a debating team from its members. We have received a letter from Swarthmore, with whom we debated last year, asking that arrangements be made for a debate with them in March. What does the Society wish to do about the matter?"

The Society decides there is not time enough now to discuss it, and the president promises to call a meeting after chapel tomorrow.

The reports of standing committees are then called for, and Mr. Breinger rises to give his report on the Lyceum Outing. "Mr. President, everyone who went knows the 'Ausflug' at Mapleton, last year, was a success, but we're going to have a better one this year at Petersburg. We will be served a chicken and waffle supper in the church basement, then we will have the free use of the hotel parlors the rest of the evening." These arrangements seem very satisfactory to the Society, and they vote to accept them.

That finishes all the business, and Mr. Mickel moves that we have a little Virginia Reel just to warm up before we go home. Mr. Crotsley seconds the motion, and Mr. Rose moves that we adjourn. Now, isn't it fun, and aren't you glad you came?

But in the Lyceum, while we are being agreeably entertained, we are also being profitably instructed. Through the frequent programs of this Society, we gain new knowledge and broaden our old, fitting ourselves to better take our places as leaders among men.

LYCEUM

The Oriental

The Oriental Society was founded and named, February 23, 1892. Since then, it has been making progress in the literary world. This is due especially to its aim, which is, "Our mental improvement, the entertainment of our friends and the cultivation of the social life."

The aim of the society has always been the aim of each individual member. Unity and progress, from its founding to the present time, have been the watchwords of the Oriental.

The society is proud of the men and women which it has sent out into the world; its representatives are scattering broadcast over the earth the grains of knowledge gathered in the weekly meetings of the Oriental.

When we look into the past, and take a retrospective view of the success which has crowned its members, we cannot help but think that the Oriental is reaching the goal for which it started. Each individual who shares in the failures and successes of the Society will be benefitted to the extent that he will wish to pay back in service to humanity what it has given to him by inheritance.

The work of the Society is indispensable to the complete education of any student. It trains him not only as a thinker, entertainer and speaker, but enables him to acquire the poise and breadth expected of a student. Literary societies are really places where our theoretical knowledge is tested in actual practice.

The Oriental Society is not large; great numbers are not desired. On account of this, every member, sooner or later, may hold any one of the numerous offices connected with the society. This experience is invaluable, as it cultivates the sense of initiative and responsibility.

ORIENTAL LITERARY SOCIETY

The Wahneeta

Motto—"Above us blows the rose that we should pluck."

Since the organization of the Wahneeta Literary Society on January 30, 1892, the College has had sufficient reason to be proud of the heights reached by its members.

When Juniata College was known as the Normal College, there was but one society, the Eclectic Literary Society. This was reorganized, and two distinct societies created, which were known as the Zuck Eclectic Literary Society, and the Quinter Eclectic Literary Society. On March 3, 1892, the names Wahneeta and Oriental were adopted for the sister societies,—the name Wahneeta being suggested by Gov. M. G. Brumbaugh, who was a member of the College faculty at that time.

The Wahneeta motto constantly keeps before us the fact that our ideal is always a little higher than the thing we have already accomplished and is our dream of perfection. We have never been able to pluck the rose—a proof of our success. For the satisfaction which comes by the plucking of the rose is only a sign of the first step toward inevitable failure.

This year has seen the beginning of great things for Wahneeta. We have entered into our literary work with a zeal hitherto unknown by the society. We have raised the standard of programs. We are proving that the student mind is seriously interested in art and a form of culture expressive of the better soul of the individual.

We are putting our hands to the work of improving—of revolutionizing—our society—of developing our tastes by putting before them high ideals of excellence and beauty.

That is what makes the Wahneeta Literary Society worth while to all of us—nothing less than that.

It is our aim to give a fruitful and prosperous heritage to the coming Wahneetans.

Not least among the organizations on College Hill is the Y. W. C. A. In the Juniata group of college women, a determination to develop soul as well as educate mind has become a slogan. Knowing that christian womanhood is noblest, believing that there is strength and power in unison, the girls have linked themselves together, pledging their allegiance to each other and to all that is good and true.

In February, 1907, the Juniata association became a chartered member of Y. W. C. A. of United States of America. It is organized according to national rules. The officers are elected, while the committee chairmen and three faculty advisory members are appointed. The cabinet plans, and directs the work of the girls. The weekly religious meetings are in the hands of student women, which tends to develop their spiritual lives and to arouse their interest in all the world wide problems so vital to the present generation. Loyally they cling to their purpose—the extension of God's kingdom in the world, never yielding its principles nor shirking the work it brings to them.

The annual Christmas bazaar is always an interesting event. Sales of ice cream, candy and sandwiches are held at stated times. Systematic mission giving is requested, dues are required to be paid regularly. In this way, funds are obtained to meet the current expenses, and to provide for practical, missionary and social work. Some of our proceeds go to support a missionary in India, some for Thanksgiving Baskets and for other causes which seem to merit aid.

Last year Juniata was well represented at Eagles Mere. Delegates were also sent to the Student Volunteer convention held at Princeton, N. J. As the years go by, we hope to increase the number of delegates, for each new delegate means added interest for the association.

These are the visible activities of the Juniata Association. But these tangible things are neither their best nor their greatest attainment. There is an inner life of purity, good fellowship and loyalty to Christ which they strive to cultivate as a basis for living. Although the result of this inner life cannot be written, it has done much to mellow and strengthen the lives of Juniata girls.

Y. M. C. A.

The spirit of mutual helpfulness and good fellowship has always been an important factor in the life of the College. Faith in God and loyalty to one's fellows have been encouraged and promoted in no small measure through the influence of the Y. M. C. A. The object of this organization is to bring every man into possession of right ideas and ideals of life based upon true Christian principles, to give to each man who comes to Juniata a broader vision of life—activities and an accurate conception of his relation to his fellow men. It also furnishes a contact relationship between the social and spiritual activities of the school.

The men meet, as has been the custom, every Sunday evening, in Room L of Students Hall. The meetings are planned by a committee and led by student members. Here the men gather to discuss freely and openly problems vital to men's lives. Prominent men are frequently secured to discuss some important topic of general interest.

In connection with the work of its regular meetings, the active work of the organization enters two important fields. There is a keen interest shown in the need for Social Service and for the study of Christian missions. This year a good class in mission study is available.

It is a standing policy of the organization to profit by the conventions and summer conferences. The conference at Eagles Mere is regularly attended by a number of local delegates.

Prayer services are held on special occasions and the week of prayer is regularly observed.

The Association, concerned in having the school a spiritual unity, endeavors to bring every man into active membership with some church. To this end it heartily cooperates with the activity of the Church.

We believe that strong religious convictions are a part of every life which would render an unselfish service. In this the Y. M. C. A. has a common interest for every college man.

For many years there have been Mission Bands at Juniata College conducted under individual management. Similar Bands were in all Brethren Colleges; as their work increased, organization became necessary. Hence we have the United Student Volunteers of the Church of the Brethren. This year the Juniata Mission Band became a member of the larger group. The purpose is to unite the effort of the students in Mission Study and the spread of the Gospel. The Declaration reads: "Whereas, my acceptance of Jesus Christ has brought me pardon and peace and responsibility and my study of His word and of the field has confirmed my conviction that the Gospel is the power of God unto Salvation, I hereby dedicate myself to special missionary service in whatever way God may direct, at any time, in any place and at any cost."

There are two interpretations to the declaration. Those not intending to do definite work, but have for their purpose a consecrated life, are associate members. Those intending to do special Church and Mission work sign the card as it is. We have this year two associate and ten active members. In the latter group three are volunteers for foreign service.

The Band meets every week for a devotional service and a study of Missions. This year they use "New Testament Studies in Missions." The purpose of the Band is to build up the members spiritually, and prepare them for active work.

The Band has held a number of missionary meetings in out of town churches. A number of the men in the Band are ministers. They regularly supply one church and fill many other vacant pulpits. The girls are active in teaching classes or other work that comes to them. The Band organized a large mission study class this year with Dr. T. T. Myers as teacher. This class meets each week.

In years past, the Band has been the source of inspiration to many members who now hold responsible positions on the foreign field. This year we hope to keep alive the Mission spirit among the students and if possible, send many out to do active, effectual service for the Master.

Debate

Juniata College has an enviable record in intercollegiate debating. Her achievements consist of sixteen victories and three defeats. The defeats were administered by the University of Pennsylvania, in 1912; Lebanon Valley College, in 1914; and Grove City College, in 1915. Among the institutions defeated by Juniata are Susquehanna University, Penn. State, Swarthmore College and the University of Pittsburgh.

In 1914 the standard of debating was lowered by placing two teams in the field on the basis of equality. In 1915 a reaction against the two team basis took place and the best talent of the school was centered in one team. As a result, the high standard of former years was revived.

Juniata reached the height of her splendid record in 1916. The season opened with much interest in debate. Early in the Fall a trial debate was held in which twelve contestants took part. Allen Brumbaugh, Abram Replogle, Edgar G. Diehm and George Crotsley were chosen to represent the institution. This team defeated Swarthmore College and the University of Pittsburgh.

In the realm of college organizations, the Boys' Club is comparatively new. It was officially born April 17, 1916, when the Club home on the first floor of Founders Hall was opened for inspection. The room takes in all the space opposite the old dining room, and is large enough to accommodate the men. It is finished in hardwood, and at one end there is a large open fire-place. The finish of the room is only equaled by its furnishings, which consist of a large, center reading table, two divans, rockers and other chairs. The furnishings, including the Victrola, are finished in fumed oak, and all is beautifully set off by the indirect lighting system. One is readily impressed by the substantial nature and luxurious apportionments of the room.

For several years it was generally recognized that a suitable place was lacking, where the boys could gather when they cared to do so. It was to fill this need that last year plans were set on foot to provide funds for starting the Club. In order to put these plans into execution, a temporary organization was effected and mainly through the efforts of these officers, enough funds were soon available to completely furnish the room. These funds came from the students, the faculty and the trustees, the latter furnishing one-third of the entire sum. The early opening of the room was possible mainly through the generosity of Mr. Harold M. Eby of Huntingdon, who presented the Victrola to the Club.

The government of the Club is vested in a staff of officers which is elected yearly. This staff has power to make and enforce all rules, but few are necessary, the most important being that concerning membership. By its provisions, men contributing to the original fund become perpetual members, and all new men acquire like privileges by the payment of an initiatory fee.

The value of the Club lies in the air of homelikeness which always pervades it and the spirit of contentment which it fosters among the fellows. The general aim and purpose of the Club is cultural. In it are found the accredited newspapers and magazines common to the average American home. It affords a convenient place for men who care to do so, particularly to day students, to work amid congenial surroundings. But above all, it affords a common meeting ground where the different elements of the school can fuse together on the basis of hearty good fellowship and catholic spirit. The Boys' Club is on its way to become one of the leading socializing factors in the life of the school; its value, as well as its power, will become more apparent as its spheres of influence and activity become gradually extended.

COACH PUTT

nents who had to learn this in the hard school of experience all too late to be of benefit. At times the team worked with machine-like precision and with as telling effect as the British "tank." Then again it would act like that unruly and much maligned animal, the "Henry Ford," but even then reputation saved the day. The thing which threw consternation into the enemy's phalanxes was that they never knew when we might strike. Much was expected of our new system of defense. Sometimes it spelled disaster and at other times it would back-fire.

In the early season practice game against Tyrone Y. M. C. A. and Juniata Car Shops, the team looked like world-beaters, but when State was met on her floor the necessary "punch" was lacking and we were forced to accept defeat in a listless game by a three point margin.

The Western Trip

The western trip of January 10 to 14, was a decided success from the number of games won and showing made. Our team was never outclassed and at all times proved dangerous in the enemy's territory. On Wednesday, January 10, the Duquesne University quintet ladled out a bitter dose to our boys to the tune of 33 to 25. The boys were somewhat handicapped by a small floor, poor lights, and a low ceiling. Poor shooting was to a large extent responsible for the defeat.

With a firm resolve to retrieve themselves, the Blue and Gold started off like a whirlwind against Pitt the following night. It looked like a walk-away for Juniata, the Pitt boys were totally helpless and played entirely off their feet, but in the second half the tide of battle turned. Pitt came back strong, while the Juniata boys acted as if they were suffering from ptomaine poisoning. In the final analysis Pitt had the long end of the score.

At Washington, Pa., on Friday, January 12, the game of games was staged. With the score standing 16-10 against her at the end of first half, Juniata came back like Christy Mathewson and completely outplayed W. & J. on offensive and defensive play. The guarding was so close that W. & J. failed to register from the field in the second period.

With the heightened blood of victors running strong in their veins, the Juniata representatives met Carnegie Tech, on the following night and administered a 27 to 22 defeat. It was a "nip and tuck" contest, the score being tied on three occasions and Tech leading once at 20-19, but Uncle Andy's boys were unable to maintain their lead against the superior team work and foul shooting of their visitors.

The Eastern Trip

With the "do or die" spirit, our team met Lebanon Valley College on the first game of the trip and in a rough game featured by superior guarding and shooting, our boys were enabled to roll up a score of 44-25 against the Annville aggregation.

Lehigh was met at South Bethlehem on the following night in a fast and spirited game. The game was close and hotly contested throughout. In the final five minutes of play Lehigh, by superior pass work, was able to pull away from their visitors.

CAPTAIN HORNER

With visions of what might have been, but with their ardor nowise dampened, the Blue and Gold representatives met Lafayette at Easton in the next game of the trip. With one man sick and another injured, things looked dark, but even at that, had fate not outlucked us in the hour when faint hearts are tried, another victory would have been credited to the Blue and Gold. Result—Lafayette won by a one point margin.

But the darkest hour just precedes dawn. Not despairing, but with the confidence of a Teddy R., our boys played Pratt to a standstill on the last stand of the trip, January 28. Juniata led from the start and was never in danger of being overhauled.

Of our trips we are proud. On each trip we were able to win half while the ones lost were anybody's game up to the blowing of the whistle.

On Friday night, February 2, Lebanon Valley was entertained on the home floor and her lofty ambitions were squelched for the second time by a 47 to 23 score. The visitors were outclassed in all departments of the game and were never dangerous.

Here we would fain draw the curtain and call the season a decided success, but duty bids us continue. In rapid succession a trio of games was lost on the home floor to Lafayette, Carnegie Tech., and Lehigh. Many were the causes, major and minor, for our defeats. One first string member of the team was lost by graduation, while the team as a whole seemed to strike a slump which spelt disaster in the succeeding games. The team work lagged while the old confidence and fight seemed to resolve itself into a minus quantity.

THE PLAYERS

Oller at forward completed his second season on the varsity. His jump shots and clever foul shooting were ever valuable assets to the team.

Newcomer played a steady game at forward and was always an unerring scorer at close range. Although the smallest and lightest man on the team, he was responsible, by his accuracy, for the materializing of signals from the pivot position.

Center was held down by Baker very effectively. Few centers were met who could split even on the tip off with him, while in covering up and scoring "Slim" was hard to beat.

At guard, Manbeck was the same old gun of years which have already made history. His "pot shot" from all angles of the floor made him a valuable man when the finals were totaled, while on the foul line he was ever steady.

Captain Horner in the back field position completed the best season of his brilliant career. He covered space like a monoplane, roping down passes from all angles and again advancing the ball with the speed of a cyclone. His iron clad guarding ever held the enemy at bay.

Wright, a freshman, proved himself to be a valuable utility man. He shot with deadly accuracy while his speed and close guarding put him in every play.

Fowler was in several engagements and gave good account of himself. He was especially valuable when strong defensive work was necessary.

COACH PUTT
merly coached Kiski, and the preceding year the Freshman team at State College.

Baseball

Baseball practice for the season of 1916 began early in March in the gymnasium. Later taking advantage of the mild weather, practice was shifted to the athletic field. Quite a large number of men reported for practice. Few of last year's varsity men were back in school so the team consisted largely of new material.

Through Manager Horner's efforts a good schedule was arranged. Mr. H. H. Haversticks was secured as coach. He had formerly coached Kiski, and the preceding year the Freshman team at State College.

From the widely diversified, conglomerate, heterogeneous mass of seasoned, unseasoned, in season, and out of season material at his disposal a team was moulded, but it failed to accomplish the deeds of prowess hoped and expected of it.

The team was considerably handicapped by having a weak pitching staff. In several of the games a good showing was made, but then the breaks would go against us and our spirits would be plunged to the depths of despair. Failure to produce hits when they meant scores or an unfortunate steal cost us many games.

Even in the midst of such a tragic affair as the Lebanon Valley game our tears were quickly dashed aside and our gloom dispelled by the "daring feat of skill" performed by our pinch hitter Baker when he made his toboggan slide to first. Had there been grass as far as right field fence Prof. Crowell declared he would have reached it.

The Juniata jinx as usual made the Carnegie Tech. aggregation pie for our boys. Lawson's curves looked like peas traveling at the rate of bullets to the Pittsburghers and so fate forced us to take both games. All of the independent teams met fell easy victims to our strategy, but that is only half the story. Against such teams as State College, University of Pittsburgh, and Albright, the Blue and Gold found tough sledding. Although a good showing was made in each game a victory would have been most favorably received on College Hill.

Lawson, the spit ball artist, showed good form throughout the season, but experienced great difficulty in control. "Lefty" Grote puzzled 'em, but never liked to let himself out unless the bases were full. Chief Bender didn't have a thing on Berkley, but poor support spelt disaster for him at critical periods. At second Fowler played a steady game, while Breininger went after them all at third. Ullery, a new man, played a remarkable game at first as did Engh at short-stop.

Blair, with Flory as relief man, was the same old gun behind the bat. They both "punched 'em on the nose" occasionally. Rankin took care of the center garden in fine style as well as performing nicely at bat. Brown played a good fielding game but was noticeably weak at hitting. Good led his team mates on walks as well as rolling up a large percentage of stolen bases.

This season's prospects appear better than last. The Athletic Association has secured Ward Putt, an old Juniatan, as coach. He has had a wide and varied experience in college and professional ball, which should make him a capable and efficient pilot. Breininger, Berkley, Blair, Good, Rankin, Flory, Fowler, and Lawson of last year's team are in school and will be out for the team while an abundance of new men with good high school records are available.

A good schedule has been arranged by Manager Grimm and it is hoped this fact together with the biggest prospects for a good team presages an interesting and successful season.

Track

Juniata has always been able to turn out a first class track team and the team of 1916 was no exception to this rule.

For the first time in the history of Juniata, a relay team was sent to represent her at the Penn Relay Race Carnival. A very creditable showing was made, considering the colleges against which the Blue and Gold was pitted, and the fact that it was her first entry in the Relays. Out of the eight contesting colleges, Juniata finished fourth. Much of the sting of defeat was effaced by considering that the fast Lebanon Valley team, the 1914 winners, brought in the rear, while Ursinus was also made to eat some of Juniata's dust. The "dark horses" won from our point of view. Manbeck was boxed in on the start, but fought his way up to third; the strain then telling, he dropped to fourth. Stayer again regained third place, which was held by Horner, who ran the fast Evans of Lebanon Valley to a stand still. Baker ran the race of his life but was nosed out at the finish.

Two intercollegiate meets were scheduled for the season, but Muhlenberg perhaps became faint of heart, remembering that Juniata had twice thrashed her—at least she canceled without sufficient reason.

Lebanon Valley College was met and defeated on the home field on May 31, by the final score of 67 to 59. Captain Von Bereghy, Lebanon Valley's giant weight hurler, was high point man, but failed to bring his team through a winner. Stayer ended his athletic career in a halo of glory by out-jumping and out-hurdling the opposition. Swigart broke his former record in the broad jump, as did Manbeck in the pole vault. The mile was one of the most spectacular events of the meet. Baker's phenomenal burst of speed on the finish beat the fast Potter. Fisher, Berkley, and Horner did much toward the final downfall of the Easterners. We credit our victory to a well balanced team, which was only accomplished by hard and consistent work by all members of the team.

Girls' Gymnasium Class

This year Miss Jo Royer, '20, is gymnasium instructor for the girls. She has introduced several new games which are greatly enjoyed. Girls' basket ball was prohibited for the first time, this year, because it is supposed to be "unscientific and unpedagogical," in other words too strenuous. However, other games were substituted, including indoor baseball, which more than make up for the loss of basket ball.

JO ROYER

Boys' Gymnasium Class

Physical Training

Too often, in the over emphasis placed upon intercollegiate athletics, the student who is unable to make a team is neglected. This is not the case at Juniata. All students have an equal chance for all around development. Walter Fisher has charge of the boys' gymnasium work. Each student is required to take a certain amount of calisthenics, drills, and apparatus work. Several novel features have been introduced which make the work both attractive and interesting. Less trouble has been experienced this year than previously in keeping up the attendance.

All the boys are given a chance to play basket ball. A "gym" league was organized with Messrs. Hershey, Howe, Magill, and E. Miller as captains. The rivalry for championship is keen and has made the games spirited and interesting. A remarkable thing about Juniata basket ball teams is that most of her best men have played little or no basket ball before coming to Juniata, but received their training in the melting pot on College Hill, namely the "gym." Among these stars we might mention Carroll, Horner, and Manbeck. So we count the gymnasium work one of the vital necessities in the Juniata life.

Tennis

PAUL MOYER, '19

As the seasons roll on, and human events become history, tennis is ever becoming a more and more popular sport at Juniata. From early dawn to setting sun, from early spring till late fall, the courts are occupied constantly. This spirit has had much to do toward the cry for a representative intercollegiate team for the Blue and Gold, and it is likely that next year, if not this year, such a team will be organized. Plenty of good material is available and with a competent coach, could be made into a first class team.

One of the most spirited and hotly contested men's tournaments in years was staged on College Hill last fall. In the singles, Paul Moyer, by consistent playing throughout the contest, was able to win out. It was a battle royal, but Paul was out for blood and came home with the "bacon." Oller and Magill came through winners in the doubles. "Maggie" said to Jeff, "We oughta do it," and Jeff said, "Margaret, we will," and they did. Frank directed the campaign with the skill of a Von Hindenburg; when Jeff's spirits lagged, Frank buoyed him up by word and example. Jeff played like a fiend, covering all parts of the court and sending his catapult-like drives with the unerring precision of a Krupp gun, to the utter consternation of the opposition.

Next spring a tournament for the girls is to be held, as well as mixed doubles. These events should call forth great interest and rivalry.

The Seniors

Oho! the young Seniors have come to their own,
 Thru all Juniata this class is best known.
 Their brilliance surpasses all that of the past,
 Their fame in the classroom forever will last.
 Success sees them coming, throws open the door;
 There was never a class like the Seniors
 before.

Of each member I'll tell you, then plainly you'll see,
 A finer and better class never could be.
 We have athletes and singers and novelists fine,
 Each person excels in some excellent line.
 To the highest of heights in this world
 they will soar.
 There was never a class like the Seniors
 before.

John Baker's a gentleman slender and thin,
 A man who excels in whatever he's in.
 Sometimes he's called "Weener" but usually John,
 He's a man one is sure in depending upon.
 He's a hero; when Freshmen we all found that out.
 That he'll make his mark is beyond any doubt.

Edgar Diehm is a fellow of no little worth,
 He has bright golden hair and's a Dutchman by birth,
 He is true to a maiden down Lancaster
 way,
 Who'll be proud of her Edgar at some future day.
 His place 'mid the great of the world he will claim,
 As an eloquent speaker quite worthy of fame.

"Newc" is a man who's familiar to all,
 He is neither too little, nor is he too tall;
 He can sing, he can play, and I'll tell you, forsooth!
 He's peculiarly fond of the maidens named Ruth.
 Society offers more charm than his books:
 His hours pass the sweetest in cool,
 shady nooks.

Our Mr. Magill looks quite lamblike and meek,
 He looks just as if he would rather not speak,
 But looks are deceiving, as everyone knows,
 For he's loaded with noise from his head
 to his toes,
 When he gets a bass drum all the buildings resound
 And the students stand awed at the thundering sound.

The Seniors (Continued)

Mr. Reber from Chicago showed taste unsurpassed,
When he joined this delightfully wonderful class.
We are happy to say he's a Dutchman
all thru,
For the Dutch can do things that we others can't do.
Whom he's fond of you know, so I won't have to tell,
I'll say just this much. She's a Lancaster belle.

And Sunshine's the name that we give Brother Rose,
His smile is as broad as a smile ever goes.
His blue eyes can twinkle like stars in the sky,
He'll cheer up the heathen perhaps, by and by.
That this is the sphere for this man,
you'll agree,
For no darkness can stay where this Sunbeam would be.

Harry Manbeck's a lad whom we often call "Fred"
And whenever he speaks, what he says is well said.
An athlete who into first rank quickly came,
A joker and actor of no little fame.
He is fond of the ladies but won't specialize,
The meaning of this we can quickly surmise.

Now Fisher's a man who is like other men,
Excepting perhaps he's a genius in "chem."
Oh yes! He's a shark in biology too;
There is nothing in science that he cannot do.
A question arises he should think upon,
And that's how a "Fish" can be so fond of "Swan."

And now, comes the last, but by no means the least,
He's our president worthy, with trousers
well-creased.
He is called Herman Breininger,
"Breinie" or "Herm."
In all that he does he is steadfast and firm.
Pretty girls and sweet smiles are but made to adore,
And two laughing eyes bring his heart
to the fore.

These are all of the boys, now the girls
you must meet,
They are charming and talented, pretty and sweet.
They are few in their number, but choice
in their kind,
Such ladies you'd have to seek ages to find,
The gentlemen wish that there were a few more,
For never such ladies were Seniors
before.

The Seniors (Concluded)

Our Alice can play, can speak German and sing,
Her voice is as sweet as a bird in the Spring.
Her laugh is contagious, she's life in a crowd,
She's a maiden of whom we can justly be proud.
A source of delight are her twinkling
brown eyes;
That they charm Mr. Mickel is not a surprise.

Elmira's a maid whom to like you must know,
In all that she does she is cautious and slow.
She is just one ahead of the rest of the girls,
For once she was married 'mid flowers and flurrs.
Of course 'twas just play, when yet
Freshmen we were,
Yet all of the girls are quite jealous of her.

Our Floy has a fondness for bugs and such things,
That crawl on the earth or that fly upon wings,
They say that a doctor she's striving to
be,
And all of her classmates she's going to treat free.
We hope this is true, yet we think there's a doubt.
We think she'll be cooking "Kartoffels und Kraut."

Our Gretta you already know, if you look
At the drawings adorning this excellent book.
She not only draws, but she's clever and bright,
'Mid the brilliants at school, she's a bright shining light.
Some day she'll depart for the dark heathen lands,
Where cannibals dwell on dark Africa's strands.

And now comes a girl whom words fail
to depict,
Her name is Ruth Williams, she's clever and quick;
Her keenness of mind astounds even the Jews,
A better young lady we never could choose.
She is affable, mirthful, yet fervent in heart,
A girl to whom living a life is an art.

And now, quite at loss, I must add my own name,
To those on this roll call of Seniors and
fame.
Not much but a rhymer can I claim to
be,
And a poor one at that, as you readily see.
Yet now, with some truth can't you say o'er and o'er
"There was never a class like the Seniors
before"?

Calendar

September

LIFE IN THE MODERN CITY

has tested the best of us. Many have fallen, others rendered unfit to serve humanity and not many ready for the strenuous life of the soldier. War weakens the race by killing off the strong. But when the race is at its best it is prepared for war and also adapted to the efficiency of peace. Our vocations are no longer mainly physical and yet our muscles form most of our weight and must work. :: ::
